Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

1 September 2020 to 28 February 2021

Dear Shareholder,

I am writing to update you on the activities of BlackRock Global Funds ('BGF') over the six months to 28 February 2021. The BGF range comprised 84 funds (each a "Fund", together the "Funds") as at 28 February 2021.

During the period under review, the outbreak of an infectious respiratory illness caused by a novel coronavirus known as COVID-19 has continued to develop as a global pandemic. COVID-19 has resulted in travel restrictions, closed international borders, enhanced health screenings at ports of entry and elsewhere, disruption of and delays in healthcare service preparation and delivery, prolonged quarantines, cancellations, supply chain disruptions, and lower consumer demand, as well as general concern and uncertainty.

As you will be aware, the impact of COVID-19 has adversely affected the economies of many nations across the entire global economy, individual issuers and capital markets, and could continue to extents that cannot necessarily be foreseen. In addition, the impact of infectious illnesses in emerging market countries may be greater due to generally less established healthcare systems. Public health crises caused by the COVID-19 outbreak may exacerbate other pre-existing political, social and economic risks in certain countries or globally. The duration of the COVID-19 outbreak and its effects cannot be determined with certainty.

For the early part of the period under review, financial markets remained in a holding pattern. COVID-19 was in abeyance across much of the world and there were tentative expectations of a return to normal economic activity. Gross domestic product ("GDP") figures started to pick up across the globe.

However, cases started to increase from late September onwards, prompting some wobbles in the stock markets. As Europe was engulfed in a second wave, policymakers recognised that further lockdowns would be inevitable, at least until a viable vaccine or treatment came to the fore.

In November, in spite of rapidly rising COVID-19 cases in the US and Europe, the mood changed quickly as three drug companies – Pfizer, Moderna and AstraZeneca announced promising results for their vaccine trials, far better than most had predicted. Markets started to anticipate economic recovery and with it, higher inflation. This pushed longer-dated bond yields higher.

This had implications for the stock market. Until that point, markets had been led higher by high growth stocks, particularly the technology sector, while economically sensitive parts of the market – banks, oil and gas, travel and leisure – continued to lag. The valuation gap between the high growth sectors and more cyclical or value areas was as wide as it had ever been.

This abruptly switched from November onwards, with many of those companies hit hardest by the COVID-19 restrictions recovering. This also applied to individual markets. The UK, for example, fared better, both as a result of the Brexit trade deal signed at the end of December, but also because of the make-up of the market. Its weight to areas such as banking and oil that had been a headwind for much of 2020 helped it perform better.

It was also a stronger period for emerging markets, particularly more cyclical emerging markets geared to the resurgence in commodity prices. In contrast, areas such as the US and China, which had been buoyed by the performance of the technology sector, fell back.

Governments and central banks kept stimulus packages in place given the ongoing uncertainties for businesses and economies. The incoming Biden administration in the US planned a US$ 1.9 trillion stimulus package, designed to put cash back into people's pockets, keep struggling businesses afloat and preserve jobs.

Government bond markets had rallied as interest rates dropped and quantitative easing resumed with the US 10-year Treasury Bond Yield starting the period under review at around 0.7%. However, bond yields had started to tick higher by February as investors started to fret about the potential for inflation. US Federal Reserve Chair, Jay Powell, has continued to make it clear that interest rate increases are some way down the line, even if short-term inflation is ticking higher.

Regulatory change continued throughout Europe and a number of these future changes could have implications for investors:

- The European Supervisory Authorities ("ESAs") submitted draft Regulatory Technical Standards to the European Commission on the content of PRIIPs Key Information Documents ("KIDs"), with a particular focus on performance scenarios and costs. The Company will benefit from the transitional period available for a UCITS, and the legislation will not be applicable to the Company until 31 December 2021.

The information stated in this report is historical and not necessarily indicative of future performance.

Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

1 September 2020 to 28 February 2021 continued

- In June 2020, the European Securities and Markets Authority ("ESMA") issued a supervisory briefing aimed at local regulators, looking at the supervision of costs and charges applicable to Undertakings for the Collective Investment in Transferable Securities ("UCITS") funds and Alternative Investment Funds ("AIFs"). Costs can have a significant impact on final returns for investors and, with this issuance, ESMA looks to ensure that charges on retail investment products are fair and transparent, with an emphasis on prevention of undue costs.

- The European Union's new Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ("SFDR") will come into effect in March 2021. It imposes new transparency and reporting obligations on investment management firms, both at a firm-wide level and at a product level.

The assets under management ("AUM") in the BGF range rose 25.2% from US$149.1 billion to US$186.7 billion over the period, with weakness in income, real estate and some Asian funds offset by strength in technology, sustainability and a number of thematic funds.

Investors continued their focus on high growth areas, particularly technology. The Next Generation Technology Fund saw the strongest rise in assets across the range, rising 527.1% to US$5,700.2 million. The Sustainable Energy Fund posted a 169.1% rise to US$5,432.6 million, while the ESG Multi-Asset Fund rose 81.4% to US$2,000 million. The Circular Economy Fund and Future Of Transport Fund rose 81.2% and 244.3% respectively to US$1,576.7 million and US$1,066.0 million.

In general, defensive assets moved out of favour as economic recovery took hold. The Global Government Bond Fund saw assets drop 15.0% to US$782.5 million, while the Global Equity Income Fund dropped 1.8% to US$966.4 million. The World Gold Fund was also weak, falling 21.4% to US$5,784.5 million. The Asian Dragon Fund and ASEAN Leaders Fund also shed assets over the six month period.

There was one new fund launched over the period: the ESG Asian Bond Fund was launched on 20 October 2020. On 18 December, the Market Navigator Fund closed.

Investment Adviser's Report
Performance overview

1 September 2020 to 28 February 2021

Market Review
Over August, September and October 2020, markets followed a similar pattern to the low point of the market in March 2020. Areas that could sustain strong growth in the face of COVID-19 lockdowns, such as technology or e-commerce, continued to show strength, while travel, leisure and other hard-hit industries continued their weakness.

Corporate bankruptcies continued. Analysis by S&P Global Market Intelligence showed 630 US companies declared bankruptcy in 2020, the worst level in a decade. This included high profile names such as Neiman Marcus and J. C. Penney. It was a similar picture across the world, as companies found that no amount of government help could compensate for months of near-zero revenue. As such, while the S&P 500 had recovered all of its March losses by August, this had mixed fortunes for the companies underneath.

The vaccine news prompted a resurgence in 'value' sectors such as oil and banking and in those markets – such as the UK – with heavy weightings in those sectors. Emerging markets jumped higher. China had already been performing well, having tackled the virus effectively and resumed economic activity, but other areas, such as Latin America began to catch up. The highly-rated US market, in contrast, saw weakness relative to its peers, in spite of the strength of the US vaccine rollout programme and some stability returning to its political outlook.

By the end of February, with the vaccine roll-out underway, value areas were firmly in the ascendancy. Long-term bond yields (which move inversely to prices) had started to spike higher as investors became increasingly concerned about the threat of inflation. The US 10 year treasury yield had moved from 0.5% at the start of August, to 1.4% by the end of February. The long-term cash flows available from high growth stocks were no longer as valuable and investors responded by selling down the highly-valued technology sector.

However, in spite of this short-term bumpiness, it is clear that COVID-19 is accelerating a number of long-term structural shifts in the economy, such as digital transformation and agile working. As such, it may be premature to conclude that markets have made a permanent shift.

The Euro Corporate Bond Fund rose 1.3%, compared to a rise of 1.4% for its benchmark, the BofA Merrill Lynch Euro Corporate Index. Outlook
By the end of February, the vaccine rollout was underway globally. It appeared that, finally, businesses and citizens could start to look forward. However, the world may look different: some industries may never recover from the impact. The airline industry, for example, is unlikely to return to pre-COVID-19 levels of activity as businesses rethink work travel and consumers take fewer flights. Areas such as commercial real estate are also facing significant challenges as companies re-evaluate their need for work space.

In contrast, COVID-19 has accelerated profound shifts in how economies and societies operate across four dimensions: sustainability, inequality, geopolitics and macroeconomic policy. As such, it may be a moment to rethink portfolio allocations.

For the time being, stronger economic growth is likely to persist, with stimulus packages feeding into the recovery and central banks keeping monetary policy loose – even as inflation expectations climb. This should support risk assets such as equities. Within equities, we believe some sectors will have a long-term tailwind in the new environment, notably healthcare and technology. COVID-19 is likely to see more capital directed towards healthcare, while shifting global supply chains has made cost-saving technology investment a priority over traditional capital expenditure. Remote working is also likely to necessitate technology spending.

COVID-19 has also changed the geopolitical landscape. Supply chains are getting shorter, rolling back a decades long globalisation trend that has gradually lowered inflation and expanded corporate profit margins. Markets are not prepared for a reversal, with the resulting effect on inflation and earnings. This remains a significant risk in the longer term.

Another key trend is the shift toward sustainable investing. In his 2021 letter to the CEO's of companies in which BlackRock invest client assets, BlackRock CEO Larry Fink said: "The past year saw major net zero commitments by China, the EU, Japan, and South Korea, and last week the US rejoined the Paris Agreement. More and more financial regulators are making climate risk disclosure mandatory, central banks are stress testing for climate risk, and policymakers around the world are collaborating to achieve common climate goals. 127 governments – responsible for more than 60% of the world's emissions – and over 1,100 companies are considering or already implementing net zero commitments…These changes will have dramatic impacts for investors."

Companies are increasingly judged on their environmental footprint and, as such, these considerations need to form part of the assessment of any investment. At BlackRock, we plan to incorporate climate considerations into our capital market assumptions – our long-run estimates of risk and return – to help investors prepare their portfolios for a transition to a lower carbon economy.

Investors need to prepare for a new normal, rather than assuming the world will be just as it was. COVID-19 has delivered a profound and enduring shock to the global economy and the repercussions will be felt for many years to come.

Performance overview

1 September 2020 to 28 February 2021 continued

Disclosed in the table below are the performance returns for the A Class Non-Distributing Share Class for each Fund, net of fees and expenses, which has been selected as a representative Share Class. Performance returns for any other Share Class can be made available on request.

Calculation methodology is based on industry standards.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance and should not be the sole factor of consideration when selecting a product. All financial investments involve an element of risk. Therefore, the value of an investment and the income from it will vary and the initial investment amount cannot be guaranteed. The Fund invests a large portion of assets which are denominated in currencies other than US dollar; hence changes in the relevant exchange rate will affect the value of the investment. The performance figures do not consider charges and fees that may be levied at the time of subscription or redemption of shares. Levels and bases of taxation may change from time to time. Subscriptions may be made only on the basis of the current Prospectus, of which the most recent annual report and audited financial statements and interim report and unaudited financial statements form an integral part, as well as Key Investor Information Documents (KIIDs). Copies are available from Investor Services, the Transfer Agent, the Management Company or any of the Representatives or Distributors. The BGF range is only available for investment by non-US persons. It is not offered for sale or sold in the US, its territories or possessions.

The Funds are not registered for sale to the public in all jurisdictions. Further details on distribution of shares of the Funds are included in the Authorised Status on page 3.
