Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a "passive" investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as their weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics. The table below excludes actively-managed funds.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between each Fund its relevant the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund's inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

The Realised Tracking Error excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

For the year ended 31 December 2024, the tracking error disclosed for each Fund is based on an accumulation shares class that is in the same currency as the Fund's base currency:

In preparing those financial statements, the Directors are required to:

General Meetings

All general meetings of the Company shall be held in Ireland, and at least one general meeting of the Company shall be held in each year as the Company's annual general meeting. At least 21 days' notice (inclusive of the day on which the notice is served or deemed to be served and of the day for which the notice is given) shall be given to shareholders. The notice shall specify the place, day and hour of the meeting and the terms of the resolutions to be proposed. A proxy may attend on behalf of any shareholder.

The subscriber shareholders shall have one vote for each subscriber share held. The relevant record date for these purposes shall be a date being not more than 30 days prior to the date of the relevant general meeting of shareholders or written resolution as determined by the Directors. In relation to a resolution that in the opinion of the Directors gives or may give rise to a conflict of interest between the shareholders of Questions arising at any meeting of the Directors are determined by a majority of votes. The quorum necessary for the transaction of business at a meeting of the Directors may be fixed by the Directors, and unless so fixed at any other number shall be two.

The Directors have procedures in place to ensure that all relevant books of account are properly maintained and are readily available, including production of annual and half yearly financial statements. The Directors are responsible for ensuring that the books of account disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Company and enable them to ensure that financial statements are prepared in accordance with accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland and comply with the Companies Act 2014 and the UCITS Regulations. The annual financial statements of the Company are required to be approved by the Directors. The statutory financial statements are required to be audited by the Company's independent auditors, KPMG, who report annually to the Audit Committee on their findings.

Brown Brothers Harriman Fund Administration Services (Ireland) Limited (the "Administrator") is appointed as an independent administrator to the Company to maintain the books and records and the Administrator is authorised and regulated by the Central Bank of Ireland and must comply with the rules imposed by the Central Bank of Ireland. In addition, the Administrator will prepare all financial statements and corresponding notes in respect of the Company together with its annual and semiannual reports.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, followed by the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 7.50% for the 12 months.
- Seven of the index's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns, led by information technology, which gained 21.0% and was the largest-weighted sector. Financials, consumer discretionary and communication services also helped performance. Materials represented the biggest detractor.
- Taiwan, China and India contributed most to the benchmark's return, with double-digit gains. Among the largest-weighted markets, South Korea detracted the most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed Europe Index Fund (formerly Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund)

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Choice Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- In late June, the fund changed its name from Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund to Vanguard ESG Developed Europe Index Fund. It also changed its target index from the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a non-ESG index, to the FTSE Developed Europe Choice Index, a dedicated ESG index.
- The fund's spliced benchmark index – reflecting a combination of its old and new target indices – returned 8.50%. Seven of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors contributed positively to returns. Financials, industrials and technology contributed most. The greatest detractors were basic materials and consumer staples.
- Almost all of the markets in the index contributed positively to performance. The United Kingdom and Germany contributed the most, followed by Italy, France and Spain. Among larger markets, only Denmark detracted.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 18.08% for the 12 months. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors were in positive territory, led by technology, which has the largest weighting in the index and posted the highest return. Financials and consumer discretionary also produced strong returns. Basic materials and energy produced negative returns.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than two-thirds of the index, returned almost 25%. Japan, the United Kingdom and Canada, the index's second-, third- and fourth-largest markets by weight, also posted positive returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, followed by the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 12.48% for the 12 months. The fund's return differed from that of its benchmark, owing largely to the impact of capital gains taxes stemming from a rally in Indian securities.
- Seven out of 11 benchmark sectors produced positive returns, with technology leading the way and standing out as by far the biggest contributor. Financial stocks were another top contributor, while basic materials detracted the most.
- Taiwanese stocks, which accounted for about a quarter of the index, contributed most to returns from a regional standpoint, followed by stocks from China and India. Among the largest-weighted markets, Brazil detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- The fund's benchmark returned 1.79% for the 12 months. The fund outperformed its benchmark due to the global tax treatment of dividends on non-resident investors in certain markets.
- Only four of the index's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns. Strong performance in financials and industrials helped offset negative returns. Consumer staples, materials and energy detracted most.
- Market returns in the index were a mixed bag. The United Kingdom and Germany contributed most to performance, while France and Denmark detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying Euro Zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 9.49% for the 12 months. The fund outperformed its benchmark due to the global tax treatment of dividends on non-resident investors in certain markets.
- Eight of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive returns, led by financials and industrials. Information technology was also a top contributor. The greatest detractors were consumer staples and energy.
- By market, Germany, which accounted for more than 25% of the index, contributed the most followed by Italy, the Netherlands and Spain. Among the largest markets, Finland was the lone detractor.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 8.15% for the 12 months.
- Nine of the index's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns, led by financials and industrials. Real estate and materials detracted slightly.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than half the index, contributed most to results. Germany and France were among the markets detracting the most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 18.67% for the 12 months.
- Ten of the index's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns, with six posting double-digit gains. Information technology – the largest sector in the index – contributed the most to returns, followed by financials, communication services and consumer discretionary. Materials slightly detracted.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than two-thirds of the index, outperformed the benchmark as a whole. Among the largest markets in the index, only France and Switzerland detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, followed by the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- In this environment, Japanese equities ended the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 15.54% for the 12 months.
- Results were positive in nine of the index's 11 industry sectors, led by financials and industrials. Consumer discretionary was also a top contributor. Materials and utilities detracted slightly.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, followed by the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period, with the United States performing particularly well.
- Pacific markets excluding Japan finished the year higher overall. The fund's benchmark index returned 11.57% for the 12 months.
- Results were positive in eight of the index's 11 industry sectors. Financials accounted for nearly 40% of the index's weighting and stood out as by far the top contributor, posting a 26.4% return. Materials detracted the most.
- Australia was the largest-weighted market and contributed most to performance. Singapore strongly outperformed the benchmark, returning 41.1%.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. US bonds, however, finished in positive territory.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 24.50% for the 12 months.
- Ten of the index's 11 industry sectors produced positive returns, with seven posting double-digit gains. Information technology – the largest sector in the index – contributed by far the most to returns. Financials, communication services and consumer discretionary were also standouts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

[1] Index returns are adjusted for 30% withholding tax on dividends paid by US securities.

Vanguard U.S. Opportunities Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. US bonds, however, finished in positive territory.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark returned 23.31% for the 12 months.
- Seven of the index's 11 industry sectors recorded double-digit gains. Information technology, which accounted for more than 25% of the index, contributed the most to the index's performance. Materials, real estate and energy contributed the least.
- The fund underperformed its benchmark by a wide margin largely due to selection in information technology and an overweight to health care. Underperformance also owed to an underweight to and selection in communication services. An underweight to and selection in materials added the most to relative performance, as did having no exposure to real estate.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA–.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- The fund's benchmark index returned –4.73% for the 12 months.
- Except for Ireland and Austria, all countries in the index posted negative returns. France, which reported a return of –7.94%, fared worst.
- Bonds of all maturities declined, but bonds with maturities of 20 to 30 years, which represent the bulk of the fund's holdings, performed better than those with maturities of 30 or more years.
- AAA bonds and AA bonds lost ground, with the higher-rated securities faring better.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned –1.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. US bonds, however, finished in positive territory.
- For the 12 months, the fund outpaced its benchmark index, which returned 6.54%.
- Security selection in Romania and Colombia and an allocation to Indonesia contributed most to the outperformance. Underweight allocations to Argentina, Lebanon and Pakistan detracted.
- Rates positioning (long Brazilian rates and short US rates) detracted overall, as did forex positioning (short USD in the first half of the year).

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard ESG Global Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI Corporate Float-Adjusted Bond Screened Index, a multi-currency benchmark that includes investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Global stocks returned 16.69%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US turned in a stronger performance than the rest of the world as a whole.
- Global bonds returned –16.69%, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. US bonds, however, finished in positive territory.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 3.74% for the 12 months.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. Other index heavyweights including Germany, Spain, Canada and France outperformed.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions returned more than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder performed better than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, shorter-dated bonds produced the strongest returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 1.95% for the 12 months.
- With the exception of France, all countries in the benchmark index reported positive returns. Of the countries that make up a significant proportion of the index, Italy reported the highest return for the period, at 5.27%.
- Bonds with the shortest maturities reported the largest gains, while those with maturities of 20 years or more lost value. In terms of quality, lower-rated bonds generally performed better.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding euro zone treasury and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 3.89% for the 12 months.
- Each sector in the index posted positive returns. Corporates performed the best, with all represented subsectors – financial institutions, industrial companies and utilities – posting healthy gains. Securitised assets reported the second-highest sector returns, followed by non-corporates.
- Nearly every country represented in the index posted positive returns. Among the larger markets in the index, Sweden, Italy and Spain performed best.
- Shorter-term bonds reported higher returns than those with longer maturities. From a credit-quality perspective, lower-rated bonds performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, followed by the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- Year-on-year euro area inflation ended the period at 2.4%, representing a modest decline from the prior-year figure of 2.9%. The fund's benchmark index returned 0.28% for the 12 months.
- By country, bonds in France and Germany lost value, but these results were offset by gains in Italy and Spain.
- Shorter-term bonds posted positive returns, but those with maturities of more than 10 years declined in value.
- By quality, lower-rated bonds performed better than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the year. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the year and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the year is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary (unaudited)

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Global financial markets performed unevenly for the 12 months ended 31 December 2024.
- Across much of the developed world in the first part of the year, consumer price increases continued to moderate, labour markets remained strong and interest rates appeared to have peaked. With that supportive backdrop and with high hopes for artificial intelligence, stocks gained ground and a number of major market indices hit record highs.
- As the year progressed, investor sentiment was dented at times by some disappointing economic reports, weak readings from the manufacturing sector and a surprise rate hike by the Bank of Japan. The global economy nevertheless continued to expand, and further progress against inflation led a number of Western central banks to cut interest rates. The European Central Bank began to do so in June, the Bank of England in August and the US Federal Reserve in September.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 2.65% for the 12 months.
- The United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole, as did the United Kingdom and Japan. Among other large markets in the index, Italy, Spain, Canada and Germany outperformed.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions fared better than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- Short-term bonds posted healthy gains, while the longest-duration bonds declined. It was a mixed picture by credit quality, with the lowest-rated bonds in the index posting the highest returns, followed by the highest-rated bonds.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at http://global.vanguard.com. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.
