Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a “passive” investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as their weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics. The table below excludes actively-managed funds.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between each Fund and its relevant index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund’s inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

The Realised Tracking Error excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

For the period ended 30 June 2024, the tracking error disclosed for each Fund is based on an accumulation shares class that is in the same currency as the Fund’s base currency:

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.

- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the United States. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 7.49% for the six months. Much of the return was generated by the information technology sector, which on average gained more than 22%, followed by financials and communication services. This more than offset declines in four of the 11 sectors: materials, consumer staples, health care and real estate.
- By country, Taiwan and India contributed most to the benchmark's return, with double-digit gains. China followed, returning almost 5%; while that was modest compared with some other countries' returns, China is more than a quarter of the benchmark's weighting. Of the 26 countries in the index, 10 posted negative returns in US dollars, which appreciated against other major currencies during the period.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Developed Europe Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- In late June, the fund changed its name from Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund to Vanguard ESG Developed Europe Index Fund. It also changed its target index from the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a non-ESG index, to the FTSE Developed Europe Choice Index, a dedicated ESG index.
- In this environment, the fund's spliced index benchmark – reflecting a combination of its old and new target indices – returned 9.03% for the six months. Of the 11 sectors in the fund's new target index, financials, health care, technology and industrials contributed most to results.
- Of the 16 countries in the fund's new target index, only Portugal saw falling share prices. Stocks in the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Denmark and Germany contributed most to results.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

1 The benchmark for this Fund was FTSE Developed Europe Index until 24 June 2024, and with effect from such date is FTSE Developed Europe Choice Index.

Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 11.19% for the six months. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- Eight of the 11 sectors posted gains for the period, with technology contributing most to the benchmark's return, followed by financials and health care.
- US stocks, which makes up roughly 70% of the weighting in the index, contributed most to the benchmark's performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted a double-digit gain for the period.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark index returned 6.93%. The fund's return differed from that of its benchmark owing in part to the treatment of capital gains in some markets.
- Among the 11 sectors, technology was by the far the biggest positive contributor to returns (+25.31%). Financials was another top contributor, while health care and consumer staples detracted most.
- Among markets, Taiwan (+25.96), which represented about one-quarter of the index's market value, helped performance most. India was another top contributor. Brazil, Mexico and Thailand detracted most.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- Stocks ended the period up significantly. By country, Denmark and the Netherlands were the strongest performers. Portugal and France were the weakest.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 5.81% for the six months. Of the benchmark's 11 sectors, health care, financials, information technology and industrials contributed most to results. Consumer staples, utilities and real estate detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying Euro Zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark returned 8.33%. Seven of the 11 benchmark sectors contributed positively to returns; standouts included information technology, financials and industrials. The greatest detractors were consumer staples and utilities.
- Among markets, the Netherlands, Germany and Italy were the top contributors. Portugal was the lone detractor.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the period. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the period and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the period is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks finished the six months up 10.43%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US outperformed. Outside the US, emerging markets fared better than Europe and Asia-Pacific.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 1.49% for the period.
- Results were positive in over half of the benchmark's 11 sectors. By sector, industrials, financials and information technology helped performance most. Real estate was the biggest detractor.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than half the index, contributed most to results. Germany, Japan and France were the biggest detractors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks finished the six months up 10.43%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US outperformed. Outside the US, emerging markets fared better than Europe and Asia-Pacific.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 11.75% for the period.
- Results were positive in nine of the benchmark's 11 sectors. Information technology, communication services and financial stocks helped performance most.
- US stocks, which accounted for over two-thirds of the index, outperformed the benchmark as a whole, as did Denmark and the Netherlands.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the United States. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 9.53% for the six months. Eight of the 11 sectors had positive returns, with financials and industrials contributing most to performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Pacific ex-Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks posted strong gains for the period.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 3.79%. Financials contributed most to benchmark returns, and to a lesser degree communications services, technology, consumer discretionary and health care. This more than offset declines in four of the eleven sectors, with materials detracting most.
- By country, Singapore had the highest return within the index, but Australia contributed more because it makes up more than two-thirds of the index's weighting. Only Hong Kong posted a negative return.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks finished the six months up 10.43%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US outperformed. Outside the US, emerging markets fared better than Europe and Asia-Pacific.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 15.05% for the six months. Although ten of 11 sectors recorded positive returns, technology companies accounted for more than half the index's rise. Communication services, financial and health care companies also meaningfully boosted the benchmark. The real estate sector returned about -3% but accounted for little more than 2% of the benchmark and, as a result, posed a negligible drag.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

¹ Index returns are adjusted for 30% withholding tax on dividends paid by US securities.

Sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- The global stock rally that began in late 2023 continued into the first quarter of 2024, with a number of major market indices reaching record highs. Labour markets and consumer spending continued on solid footing, and investors remained enthusiastic about the potential for AI-driven economic growth.
- Market sentiment soured mid-period amid slow or stalled progress on inflation and strong economic data from some markets, including the US. This dampened expectations that central banks might soon begin cutting rates. Stocks resumed their upward trajectory, however, with support from the tech sector.
- Global stocks finished the six months up 10.43%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index in US dollars. By region, the US outperformed. Outside the US, emerging markets fared better than Europe and Asia-Pacific.
- Powered by surging technology share prices, the fund's benchmark returned 13.32% for the six months ended 30 June 2024. Ten of the index's 11 sectors recorded positive results. Share prices declined modestly in the real estate sector.
- The fund lagged its benchmark badly for the six months. A below-benchmark allocation to technology companies crimped performance, as did below-benchmark results in the sector. The fund's holdings in consumer discretionary, industrial and communication services companies also underperformed. The brightest spot at the sector level was the fund's avoidance of real estate.
- The fund invested about 9% of its net assets outside the United States during the period. Because its benchmark holds only US stocks, which recorded higher returns than stocks of most non-US markets, this modest stake detracted from the fund's relative performance. A cash stake equal to more than 5% of fund assets also detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA–.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- Global bonds finished the period in negative territory.
- The fund's benchmark index returned –8.06% for the six months ended 30 June 2024.
- All countries in the index posted negative returns, with France recording a double-digit decline.
- Bonds maturing in more than 30 years saw a bigger decline than those maturing in 20 to 30 years. And bonds rated AA fared worse than those rated AAA.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging-market countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the US Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- Global bonds returned -3.16% for the period, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index in US dollars.
- For the six months, the fund outpaced its benchmark index, which returned 2.34%.
- The fund's positioning in Ecuador, Colombia and El Salvador contributed the most to relative performance, while its underweight allocation to Argentina was the largest detractor. Rates and FX positioning also detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard ESG Global Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg MSCI Corporate Float-Adjusted Bond Screened Index, a multi-currency benchmark that includes investment grade corporate fixed-rate bonds from both developed and emerging markets issuers.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- Global bonds returned -3.16% for the period, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index in US dollars.
- The fund's benchmark returned 0.32% for the six months ended 30 June 2024.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. Other index heavyweights including Sweden, Australia, Italy and Spain outperformed.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions fared better than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder performed better than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, shorter-dated bonds produced the strongest returns.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- Global bonds finished the period in negative territory.
- The fund's benchmark returned –1.85% for the six months.
- By country, most major markets posted negative returns. France – which makes up close to one-quarter of the index – was the weakest performer. A few smaller constituents, including Croatia and Lithuania, posted positive performance.
- By maturity, longer-dated bonds underperformed the index while shorter-maturity bonds held up better. From a credit quality perspective, lower-rated bonds did best. By sector, Treasuries underperformed agency securities and local government bonds.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding euro zone treasury and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- Global bonds finished the period in negative territory.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -0.03% for the six months ended 30 June 2024.
- Corporate bonds, which accounted for more than half of the index, outperformed the index as a whole. Within corporates, financial institutions led, while industrials and utilities lagged. Both securitised and non-corporate debt did worse than the overall index.
- Among the larger constituents, supranationals, France and the United States underperformed the benchmark. Spain, the United Kingdom and Germany outperformed.
- By credit quality and maturity, bonds with the lowest rating and shortest duration performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- Global bonds finished the period in negative territory.
- Year-on-year euro-area inflation dropped to finish the period at 2.5%. That represents a sharp fall from the prior year figure but was still above the European Central Bank's target of 2%.
- The fund's benchmark index returned –2.16% for the six months ended 30 June 2024.
- All markets in the index finished in negative territory, but France was the biggest laggard.
- By maturity, Eurozone inflation-linked bonds maturing in 20 to 30 years lagged the most. By credit quality, results were mixed.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2024, concerns about the pace of inflation and the prospect of interest rate cuts were top of mind for investors.
- Although global stocks continued to rally into 2024, the enthusiasm for global bonds seen in late 2023 faded. Investors had anticipated that falling inflation would lead central banks to begin cutting interest rates. Instead, persistent strength in labour markets and consumer spending, along with slow or stalled progress on inflation in several key markets, delayed the expected timeline for rate cuts.
- In the final month of the period, the Bank of Canada and the European Central Bank felt inflation had subsided enough to begin cutting rates. Other central banks, including the Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, decided to wait.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned -0.39% for the six months ended 30 June.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, underperformed the index as a whole. France, the United Kingdom and Japan also underperformed. Australia, Italy and Spain, on the other hand, posted positive returns.
- By sector, corporate bonds fared better than other parts of the market, including government bonds and U.S. mortgage-backed securities.
- By credit quality, bonds at the bottom of the investment-grade ladder fared better than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, only bonds maturing in less than five years finished in positive territory.

All returns cited in this commentary are based in US dollars.

Returns are based on NAV with income reinvested.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.
