Investment Strategy

-The underlying fund is primarily a fund of funds that pursues its investment objective by investing primarily in a portfolio of regulated collective investment schemes and fixed interest securities.

-In seeking to achieve its investment objective and policy the underlying fund seeks an indirect exposure to international equity markets equal to a maximum of 60% of its net assets by investing in the securities of regulated collective investment schemes. The above percentage is indicative only and (subject a provided below) the Investment Manager may, from time to time, alter or adjust such percentage in order to achieve the investment objective of the underlying fund, having regard to prevailing market conditions. In selecting suitable investment opportunities for the underlying fund, the Investment Manager will adopt a top down asset allocation strategy, with investments diversified across a wide range of asset classes. The focus will be on investments which provide consistent, superior risk adjusted returns, which in combination provide a level of risk and volatility significantly below that of global equity markets. Sectoral, geographical and capitalisation focus will be driven by an ongoing assessment of the top down factors such as interest rates, macro-economic outlook, inflationary expectations, fiscal and external account balances and geo-political issues.

-The underlying fund may also invest up to 20% of its net assets in closed-ended funds which (i) qualify as transferable securities, (ii) are subject to the corporate governance regime applied to companies and (iii) where asset management activity is carried out by another entity that entity is subject to national regulation for the purposes of investor protection.

-Up to 40% of the underlying fund's net assets may be directly invested in debt securities consisting of bonds (both corporate and sovereign, fixed and floating) and in equities. Any investment in debt securities will be primarily in (i) listed debt securities including option or equity linked notes (ii) debt securities of at least investment grade status or (iii) debt securities which are considered by the Investment Manager to be of comparable quality to investment grade securities at the time of acquisition.

-The underlying fund may utilise currency forwards for efficient portfolio management purposes.

-Refer to the 'Investment Objectives and Policies' section of the underlying fund's prospectus and to the relevant Supplement to the prospectus for further information on the investment strategy of the underlying fund

KEY RISKS

WHAT ARE THE KEY RISKS OF THIS INVESTMENT?

-The value of an investment is not guaranteed and can go up and down depending on performance. You could get back less than you have paid in. At times, the ILP Sub-Fund may (Subject to the Appointed Actuary's agreement and provisions allowed for in the Policy Conditions) need to change the way its price is calculated, to ensure that those moving in and out of the ILP Sub-Fund are fairly treated. This can have a negative effect on the ILP Sub-Fund's price and performance.

These risk factors may cause you to lose some or all your investment:

to the prospectus for further information on the risks of the underlying fund.

Market and Credit Risks

Fluctuations in value risk: The value of Shares (and any income from them) may fall as well as rise and investors may not get back, on redemption or otherwise, the amount originally invested.

Collateral risk: Cash received as collateral may be invested in other eligible securities in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank. Investing this cash subjects that investment to market appreciation or depreciation and the risks associated with such investments, such as failure or default of the issuer of the relevant security.

Portfolio concentration risk: It is anticipated that the underlying fund will have a relatively low number of holdings. Although the Directors believe that a portfolio containing a relatively small number of securities will enhance the performance of the underlying fund the effect of under performance of one or more of the holdings is likely to be more significant for the underlying fund than in a portfolio containing a larger number of holdings.

Index performance risk: The objective of the underlying fund is to produce a total return and as such the portfolio will not necessarily track any particular index. Therefore, there is no guarantee that if a particular index rises in value that the underlying fund will also rise.

Currency risk: The underlying fund may hold assets denominated in currencies other than its base currency. Potential investors in the underlying fund should be aware of the risks attaching to unfavourable currency movement between the currency in which such assets may be denominated and the base currency of the underlying fund. This underlying fund is denominated in USD.

-Refer to the 'Risks' section of the relevant Product Summary for further information.

Liquidity Risks

Market and liquidity risk: Trading counterparties may from time to time refrain from making a market in a particular financial contract or instrument, with the result that those persons already holding such a contract or instrument are unable to liquidate their exposure. Such characteristics can lead to considerable losses being incurred by those exposed to such instruments.

Product-Specific Risks

Counterparty and settlement risk: The underlying fund will take a credit risk on parties with whom it trades and will also bear the risk of settlement default.

Financial derivative risk: Financial derivative instruments may involve the risk of legal default or insolvency by a counterparty and hence a failure by the counterparty to settle under the relevant financial contract, lack of market liquidity due to a failure by trading counterparties to create a market in a particular financial instrument and correlation risk where foreign currency exposures under financial instruments, such as currency forwards, are not fully or successfully hedged.

Custody risk: In certain jurisdictions, the assets of a fund may be safeguarded by a sub-custodian on the Depositary's behalf. There is a risk that the sub-custodian may not properly segregate the assets of a fund or that the sub-custodian may prove to be uncreditworthy or be responsible for errors or omissions which may result in considerable losses for a fund. In addition, for any fund which is a fund of funds the custody of the underlying funds may also be subject to the foregoing risk.
