KEY RISKS

WHAT ARE THE KEY RISKS OF THIS INVESTMENT?

-The value of an investment is not guaranteed and can go up and down depending on performance. You could get back less than you have paid in. At times, the ILP Sub-Fund may, subject to the Appointed Actuary's agreement and provisions allowed for in the Policy Conditions, need to change the way its price is calculated, to ensure that those moving into and out of the ILP Sub-Fund are treated fairly. This can have a negative effect on the ILP Sub-Fund's price and performance.

-Fund managers have the ability, in exceptional circumstances, to suspend trading in their funds for as long as necessary. When this occurs we will need to delay the 'cashing in' or switching of units in the relevant fund. You may not be able to access your money during this period.

These risk factors may cause you to lose some or all of your investment:

Further Information

-Refer to the 'Valuations and Pricing' section of your Policy Conditions for further information.

-Refer to the 'Risk Factors, Investments, Derivatives and Supplementary Information' and Annexure II – 'Further Risk Factors' sections of the underlying fund's Singapore prospectus for further information on the risks of the Fund.

Market and Credit Risks

Market risk: The value of investments by the Fund may go up or down due to changing economic, political or market conditions, or due to an issuer's individual situation.

Credit risk: A decline in the financial health of an issuer could cause the value of its bonds to fall or become worthless.

-Refer to the 'Risks' section of the relevant Product Summary for further information

Liquidity Risks

Liquidity risk: The liquidity of the Fund may be limited if a significant portion of the assets of the Fund is to be sold to meet redemption requests on a short time frame. During this period, the portfolio allocation may be modified to prioritise liquidity.

Product-Specific Risks

China Country risk: Changes in China's political, legal, economic or tax policies could cause losses or higher costs for the Fund.

Counterparty risk: The counterparty to a derivative or other contractual agreement or synthetic financial product could become unable to honour its commitments to the Fund, potentially creating a partial or total loss for the Fund.

Onshore Renminbi Currency risk: Currency control decisions made by the Chinese government could affect the value of the Fund's investments and could cause the Fund to defer or suspend redemptions of its shares.

Money Market and Deposit risk: A failure of a deposit institution or an issuer of a money market instrument could create losses.

Derivatives risk: The Fund may use financial derivative instruments as part of the investment process. The use of futures, options, warrants, forwards, swaps or swap options involves increased risk. The Fund's ability to use such instruments successfully depends on the Investment Manager's ability to accurately predict movements in stock prices, interest rates, currency exchange rates or other economic factors and the availability of liquid markets. If the Investment Manager's predictions are wrong, or if the financial derivative instruments do not work as anticipated, the Fund could suffer greater losses than if the Fund had not used such instruments.

Emerging and Frontier Markets risk: Emerging markets and especially frontier markets, generally carry greater political, legal, counterparty and operational risk.

Equity risk: Equity prices fluctuate daily, based on many factors including general, economic, industry or company news.

High Yield Bond risk: High yield bonds (normally lower rated or unrated) generally carry greater market, credit and liquidity risk.

-Refer to the 'Risk Factors, Investments, Derivatives and Supplementary Information' section of the underlying fund's Singapore Prospectus for further information.
